DESIRABLE QUALIFICATIONS FOR BOARD MEMBERS

(Reprinted from C.A.I. Publication)

1. People-Oriented
While the community Association is a business, it is a business that "hits" people where they live.
2. Detail-Oriented
Minuscule tasks need attention, along with the bigger ones.
3. Fair and Impartial Analysis
The over-all good for the majority of owners within the Association must be constantly weighted against the rights, freedoms, and the good of the individual.
4. Team Player
A good Board member understands his role and doesn't insist on controlling all the other roles; nor does he place colleagues in embarrassing positions in open meetings.
5. Flexible
The good Board member will be receptive to new ideas and innovative solutions.
6. Dependable and Responsible
A non-paid position does not excuse non-production.
7. Punctual
Time is our most precious commodity. Every effort must be made to begin meetings on time with all the responsible members present.
8. Knowledgeable
The good Board member will have either an Association/Board track record, or be a reader/learner. They will want to seek other opinions, and share theirs.
9. Integrity
It goes without saying that a Board member must be honest, truthful and courageous. He must be able to defend a Board action he has voted for when cornered by an irate neighbor.
10. Benevolent
A good Board member will have a strong backbone of authority, but will use this authority with kindness, understanding, and budgeted generosity.
